Performance by Jumpsuit Girl and friends

For the entire duration of her PhD Adele Varcoe wore nothing but a jumpsuit. It was a means to provoke interaction, questioning and curiosity from you, and a series of auto-ethnographic insights for the research. These interactions were further unpacked, interrogated and felt through a series of event-based projects that introduced garments and actions into existing situations to observe how they affected social interaction. Since completing her PhD Adele's re visited each chapter of her dissertation and re written each part as a song. She'll be singing Friday night! Come and join us for a boogie!
